

I feel like this petition Does not reflect the true reason for the Action to take place. If it is for emergency benefits alone then we would only want the best of the best operators for that purpose , not people having trouble passing the exams. This action isn't for the reason intended. No easy way out. Just study for the exams like everyone else has, instead of taking the easy way out. I think a action like this just lowers the standard of excellence for ham radio. This is Ham Radio not CB radio. We need to have a well trained community of operators, not people who can't pass the exams! Lets not lower our standards. In the long run we will be sorry we did
Thank You
